

I urge the FCC to hold our media accountable to the laws in place that protect our democracy. Allowing stations to air their partisan views only serve to breakdown what the media should be all about-presenting unbiased information. Once we allow the media to control what the public sees and hears, we risk long term repercussions and move towards propaganda. Isn't this what the FCC is suppose to avoid from happening? It's frightening to me to think how much we could be losing here. If a station wants to air "Stolen Honor", that's fine, but they should also have to air "Going Upriver" as well. Fair is fair.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
